ME

“ Dad, it’s so hard to talk and express any kind of emotion after the loss and pain of the past 13 years. Everything feels so unfair and so tragic. Dad, I loved hanging out with you, talking, drinking a beer, and listening to music. Just to name a few things I really cherished with you. Mom and you were always so quiet about your past and things that shaped you, good or bad. A few conversations we had, one within the last year, meant the world to me because you opened up about your life and moments that meant a great deal to you. I’m so grateful to you for so many things. I wish you were still here. I love you so much. I love you doggy much. ❤️
