“ Oh Curtis, where to start.... we could talk about your "gangster" days when wearing your pants almost down to your knee caps was your thing (which everyone hated). Getting your big white car with a system in it rolling down the street thinking we owned the town. The day i made you 6 pieces of toast for breakfast and halfway through realizing the bread was molded, when you repeatedly told me it tasted funny! I think you were in the bathroom for 20 minutes throwing up lol!! You always had to wear the puffy coats, which looked so good on you! That loud music you would play at the house while your mom was at work! Making fun of my tiny feet and hands because your hand was bigger than my foot (giggles). I have many many more but the one that stands out the most was when he would sit my little sister and brother on his lap and they would sing to me! 😊 I wish we could have stayed in touch over the years but its ok! There will always be a place in my heart for this family and for him. This isnt goodbye its see ya later!!!

“ I am so sorry to hear about the death of Curtis. I had Curtis in class at the high school many years ago and have fond memories of him. His personality and sense of humor made him one of my favorite students ever. I am sorry I will not be able to attend visitation as I will be out of town. He always treated me with respect - even when he was in trouble! My prayers are with those who love him and will miss him. May you have great memories also to get you through this hard time. “ so many of them, over these thirty years. been by my side through many a struggle and I hope I was there for you when you needed it. always loved you, you are my cousin because you had to be. my friend because you chose to be. I know two times that really stick in my mind right now was when we went to blue collar drinking kamakazi. and we were matching shot for shot or so you thought I had quit drinking and was just lifting an empty cup the last hour we were there. the other is this last Christmas you asked me to be your best man when you and cindy renewed your vows you will never know how much that meant to me little cousin. you will be in my heart always until we meet again.
