“ Jim, I am so sorry for your loss. I never had the pleasure of meeting Jodi. But she looks just like you. And but the other comments made, she had your sense of humor. If you were not laughing it was because you were making others laugh! My prayers are with you and your family!

“ Where do I begin...so many memories. When I was around you, you always seemed to be so ornery. I can hear you now mocking me saying "Aunt Sue Sonny", whistling through your teeth. You and your "it's a conspiracy, mamma jamma" (not certain how it went. I can still see you in a video clip wearing your pom pom gloves. You were a true fighter all the way to the end Jodi and you were an inspiration to many including myself. I don't know how you done it. So many times, you, me, and Derek would be out and about and we all laughed so hard we were crying. One of your favorite road trips was when we went to Indy and I drove with Carl, your dad in front, you were squashed in the backseat with the TV. We knew we wouldn't get lost with the "drunk tour guide" we had, pointing out everything except the blades of grass in the yards. Going to the racetracks, coming home later, cold out and we sat in the back of my Susuki Samurai freezing all the way home. Won't ever forget the "I'm looking for a garden hose" bit either. It's been an awesome time when you were here on earth. Glad we got to share in your journey kid. One day we will meet again and have to create more memories.
