“ A memory that has stuck with me the longest is when grandma told me to come out to the kitchen with something to show me. Sitting at the dinner table with a sudoku book and a pen, she told me to have a seat she wanted to show me how to complete a sudoku board. I was like 5-7 years old and all I seen was numbers and bunch of empty boxes, but boy did I pay attention to what grandma was saying (I was lowkey a little afraid of her). I remember we completed that board and I found out that I loved numbers and sudoku boards. From that night on I seen grandma differently and enjoyed every moment that we did sudoku puzzles together. I love you grandma and miss you so much already!
