“ From the day we met we became friends, then family. We didn't need to share blood, we shared love. You were an amazing human with the most upbeat optimism I've ever witnessed. You had the best sense of humor! I will miss you for the rest of my days Dish. My heart hurts for all who love you. ”

“ How do you share just one memory of your forever friend? I met you over 40 years ago and it seems like it was yesterday. You were walking in a river bank in a white dress and it was almost sunset. You made a beautiful picture. I met your Nicole that day. She was just 4 months old but stole my heart. We became friends out of necessity of being young military wife's. Our husbands share a car for work and we shared a car for errands. Laundry day, doctor appointment and grocery shopping. We found we both Loved the water .Beach river or Officers pool. Sunbathing or fishing. We spent our day dreaming what our life would turn out to be. We were so young. Your 21 birthday we spent at an all male review which made us both very uncomfortable. We rode in your brown Pinto and had many traffic altercations in it. You're my sons Godmother and first babysitter. We went through divorces, job changes, further education, remarriages, new babies (Jordon ...the fiery red head who kept you on your toes) and our children becoming adults. For the last 35 years we have lived in sperate states far away from each other but always were a part of each other lives. We never missed a Christmas box to each other even if it was Easter by the time we got it. You Loved your sexy man calendar and whatever beach themed item I could find to send you. You always sent me something whimsical and sometime bizarre and always with a glitter bomb. We shared happiness and heartbreak but we always shared. I will miss your quick wit, intelligent mind, wacky sense of humor and your enormous to a fault huge Loving Heart. Your Forever Friend Shelley
