“ Paul was an unique person, somewhat shy and very prompt in getting his work done. He truly was one of kind and I am glad that our paths crossed at Lincoln Printing.

“ Paul would visit us at work, long after he had retired. And usually he would stick around and talk to us for 15 to 20 minutes just to let us know how things were going in his life. We enjoyed what little time we had to share with him and still get our work done for the day. Once some co-workers went to a Huntington North basketball game with Paul. I think we were all taken aback when Paul would stand up unexpectedly to yell encouragement to the home team. He certainly wasn't shy to express his enthusiasm.

“ I had the pleasure of working with Paul “Red” Logan for 24 years at Lincoln. Red was fun to work with especially when he would give “Hedrick” the raspberries. I have never had more fun than when the “3 Stooges” spent months putting Red’s scrapbook together for his retirement. I will miss him.

“ Wonderful man to know and to work with. We had many laughs each day. Paul and I walk on our lunch I thought that I would slow down for him to keep up ha not so he was a sprinter. After he retired he would come in for a visit and we would do lunch catching up on life. He was a wonderful person loved by many. Roxie&Don Fry

“ I had the privilege of working with Paul for thirty years. He was a Dedicated worker who showed up every day to give his best. We all loved to tease Paul and on occasions he would hand it back. A great Christian guy.
