“ I enjoyed my visits with Wanda because she always was positive regardless of her health issues. She always wanted to know about where we were during planting and harvesting time. She and Don would always take country rides to see what was happening during the summer.

She never complained about not seeing well because she knew she was going to see better soon! She loved her family and grandchildren.

After Don died, she didn't attend church, but she always asked "what is happening at church?" She believed in God and lived her life with Him, too.

I will miss our talks,
